JEDBURGH – AFTER BENY

Exploring the Borders with Gary (Devore).

Jedburgh Abbey – an extraordinary building.

In the footsteps of Roloph Beny – remarkable photographer, remarkable and misguided snob.

Here is his photo from the lavish Thames and Hudson edition of Rose Macualay's "Pleasure of Ruins" (1962).

