BENTLEY B35AE

Fuel cap. Bentley B35AE, built at the Rolls Royce Derby works in 1933. Raced by Eddie Ramsden Hall in the 1930s and then again at LeMans in 1950. Now part of the Collier Collection in Naples, Florida.

My lab is working towards the launch of a new initiative at Stanford, the Revs Program, which will explore the history of car culture and design through the world’s finest collection of cars and library of automobility.

Archaeology of the contemporary past meets human centered design
