THE PATINA OF PRESERVATION

Boonville, northern California. Up for the weekend with Sam and Angie.

The general store on the main street – organic produce in the oldest working refrigerators I've seen.

On the aura of Polaroids and the temporality of color see my blog for 12 September on the physiognomy of nostalgia.