

HYLOGRAPHY

I am preparing with Paul Noble a guide to his work, as part of an upcoming exhibition at Museum Boijmans van Beuningen.

Paul's vast drawn world (as well as sculpted material forms) – a place called Nobson Newtown (though it questions just what we mean by place) – has at its heart a kind of fontography – in the sense of a deep rumination upon giving form to words and meanings.

Buildings and structures give form to letters; things seem to be written in the architecture, in rocks and stones too, and they indeed are, though sense is evasive and easily slips away, leaving a kind of anxious presence – they came and left. There are no living souls.

Nobson cemetery (in Ye Olde Ruin)

There are distinct experiences of order – fences, walls, arrangements of things.
There are shrouded forms. And metamorphoses, monstrous hum-animals.

Then there's the omnipresence, quite Dionysian, of faecal matter, all over Paul's world. Garbage bags. Excrement. Waste matter? The Latin is faex – the sediment left in the wine cup, after downing the draft. Sediment? Sedimentary earth, clay – out of which Prometheus created humanity.

I'll have a lot more to say later. Currently it is all causing me to reflect again upon an old fascination of mine – the emergence of a signal, sense or meaning from background noise, the distinction between figure and ground [Link]

I need a new word for all this –

hylography

If photography is writing with light, then hylography is writing with matter, on matter, through matter. Mark|matter in dialectic. As matter takes form it may reach a threshold of signification, when it seems to convey meaning. Hyle is Aristotle's word for matter (and typically associated with morphe – form). Graphein is to write in Greek: the compound -graphy here denotes processes or styles of writing, drawing, or graphic representation.

OK, so writing has to take a material form (ink on paper, scroll and codex etc), but we often overlook this, treat it as secondary, and assume that the ideal is when the process and materiality of writing is transparent, when we can simply read what is written. Hylography is not thereby tautological, because we also sometimes cherish chirography, handwriting, calligraphy, fine script, typography, the printed page, and the illuminated page, when letter forms can be so much more than just letters, and when material process, performance and gesture is as much our concern as signification.

So the notion and word hylography makes explicit those processes that occur at the threshold of sensing meaning – when marks, shapes, forms congeal and we think we recognize something. The mark/gesture challenges us and asks “do I mean anything”? Graphical forms can be experienced as more than their communicative content – when our attention is caught by the material forms themselves that letters, words, graphical marks may take.

Derived from hylography is hylogram – matter as mark | mark as matter. Gramma is a graphic mark, derived from graphein, to write, and expressing the result of the action of that verb. Both hylography and hylogram express the materialities of media, the ways we give material form to words, as well as the presence, accidental or intentional, of human origin or not, of graphical forms in matter/materials.

The weathering of driftwood and the action of waves upon sand may take on graphical form, just as the chiseled forms of a stone inscription may ultimately dissolve in the rain.

Paul's Nobson font

Prehistoric rock carvings, Lordenshaws, Northumberland UK

Routin Lin

Roman epigraphy, Hadrian's Wall, Northumberland UK

Ambrotype, anonymous, USA 1860s

Daguerreotype, anonymous, USA 1850s

Gravestone, 18th century, St Aidan's Bamburgh, Northumberland UK

Door, fisherman's shed, Lindisfarne, Northumberland UK

Fishing boat, Lindisfarne, Northumberland UK

Contemporary layout and typography can be distinctively hylographic.

Here is David Carson and Cliff McLucas:

FLITE.

luke robert carson

HIS/DECISION/TO/QUOTE/KEEP A JOURNAL END QUOTE WAS ON THE FACE OF IT A SIMPLE AFFAIR, BUT/PAUSE/BUT THE/KEEPING/OF/A JOURNAL WAS NOT THE SAME AS THE WRITING OF A BOOK STOP AT/EXCITED HIM/THAT/THE/JOURNAL COULD BE EXTREMELY OPENENDED AND MIGHT INCLUDE TEXTS/PAUSE DRAWINGS/PAUSE/MATERIALS TAKEN FROM MAGAZINES OR NEWSPAPERS/PAUSE TRANSCRIPTS OF CONVERSATIONS/PAUSE/PERSONAL MATERIALS AS WELL AS MORE PUBLIC PRONOUNCEMENTS/AND/SO/ON/STOP/AND/HE WONDERED/WHETHER THE DEVELOPMENT OF DIGITAL METHODS OF COLLECTING AND PROCESSING MATERIALS AS WELL AS THE REMARKABLE LEAP IN THE OUTPUT/QUALITY/OF/EASILY AVAILABLE/COLOR/PRINTERS MIGHT NOW ALLOW A NEW KIND OF PUBLISHING PROJECT TO TAKE/PLACE/STOP/THE GATEKEEPER PUBLISHING HOUSES MIGHT HAVE ENORMOUS DIFFICULTIES/ON/WHETHER BOTH/FINANCIAL/AND/CONCEPTUAL/TO/DO WITH THE KIND OF BOOK HE WAS IMAGINING/BUT/PAUSE/THE MORE/HE THOUGHT ABOUT IT/PAUSE THE MORE HIS DECISION EXCITED HIM/STOP/AND/SO/HE WOULD/PHYSICALLY/CONSTRUCT A BOOK STOP A ONE OFF STOP A UNIQUE OR JET STOP NEW/PARAGRAPH/BUT/THE/FORMAT FOR THIS VOLUME WOULD HAVE TO BE THOUGHT ABOUT CAREFULLY/PAUSE/AND/DETERMINED ACCORDING TO/PAUSE WHAT WERE FOR HIM/PAUSE ALIEN/AMERICAN PAPER/SIZES/PAUSE/THE AVAILABLE TECHNIQUES OF BINDING AND SO ON/STOP/HE DECIDED/THAT/HE WOULD/WORK/WITH/THE BIGGEST SIZES THAT THE PRINTER THAT WAS AVAILABLE TO/HIM/COULD/HANDLE/DASH/THIRTEEN INCHES BY NINETEEN INCHES STOP IN HIS USE OF THE SQUARE THE SWITCH/FROM/PORTRAIT TO LANDSCAPE GENERATED AN OVERLAPPED COMMON SQUARE AREA/FOR/HIS/DAILY/TEXTS OF THIRTEEN INCHES BY THIRTEEN INCHES STOP AN/PAUSE HIS BELOVED/NUMBER/THIRTEEN AGAIN STOP HE DETERMINED THAT/PAUSE IF POSSIBLE/PAUSE HE WOULD/ALSO/USE/A LONGER SHEET CALLED/PAUSE IN AMERICA QUOTE BANNER PAPER END QUOTE/STOP PAUSE WOULD ALLOW HIM SIGNIFICANTLY TO EXTEND HIS BASIC FORMAT UPWARDS/PAUSE DOWNWARDS/AND TO THE READERS RIGHT IN ORDER TO CREATE LONG FOLIO PANORAMAS STOP RESEARCH INTO BINDING METHODS LED HIM TO THE CONCLUSION THAT THE JOURNAL WOULD NEED TO BE IN THREE PARTS/PAUSE BOOKS ONE OF THREE/PAUSE TWO OF THREE AND THREE OF THREE STOP THESE THREE BOOKS WOULD RESULT IN VOLUMES THAT WERE APPROXIMATELY THIRTEEN INCHES HIGH BY TWENTY TWO INCHES WIDE AND ONE AND A HALF INCHES THICK STOP HE WAS SUDDENLY SURPRISED TO REALISE THAT THIS SIZE FITTED PERFECTLY INTO THE CHEAP PLASTIC SHOPPING BAGS HE HAD PURCHASED BACK IN WALES WHICH HE HAD USED AS HIS LUGGAGE FOR THE TRIP TO CALIFORNIA AND WAS ALSO USING IN HIS OFFICE AS DOCUMENT STORAGE UNITS STOP OT HERB MAY LAUGH/PAUSE BUT HE WAS DELIGHTED BY THE HAPPY COINCIDENCE STOP ENDS

looking for the San Antonio Park -
 and morphology of trees

looking for the San Antonio Park
 & Journal 27/9/2000 to 15/6
 Clifford Mc Lusk.

Hylography is not uncommon in modern and contemporary art. I think of Robert Rauschenberg, and especially Jasper Johns. Here, in a more romantic sensibility is John Piper, Lower Court, Kinsham, Herefordshire UK 1981 (where the key is the pen and brush mark)

Yciar

Ruano

Cresci

Horfei